Predictive Services:	For Monday; A low pressure over the Pacific NW pushes eastward across the Great Basin. This system will drag a cold front across northern areas, and produce scattered showers or thunderstorms across NE NV into much of Idaho. The fuels in the mountains of Idaho are too moist to support large fire at this time, but the lower elevations of SW ID as well as valleys of NE NV could support fires, so have issued "High Risk for Lightning" for those areas. Increasing WSW winds of 25-35 mph expected over much of NV and SW UT/AZ Strip Monday...pushing into Ern UT Tue, where we have "High Risk for Wind". Gradual cooling trend later this coming week.
GBCC Update:	18 new starts for 535 acres Large fire growth reported yesterday 2662
1 Fire: Brian Head IC: Kim Martin / Tim Roide Kim Martin's T1 IMT	43,436 acres / 10% contained / 1140 Personnel / $7 million Fire grew 600 acres yesterday. Fire has been zoned east to west between Roide's Type 2 IMT and Martin's Type 1 IMT. Fire looking good in Brianhead area. On the N-NE side there is more concern with the winds. Fire has potential to make runs towards Bear Valley. On the east side in the higher elevations good progress was made in the lighter fuels with heavy equipment. On the south side the fire crossed Hwy 143,
